The rainy day

Suddenly, one day in California it was gushing water from the sky.

There were trees falling over but the cars continued to drive.

Then they decided to go the tropical rainforest but it was raining there too.

Then they went to see the train go over the bridge but they noticed the river was higher than normal with water.

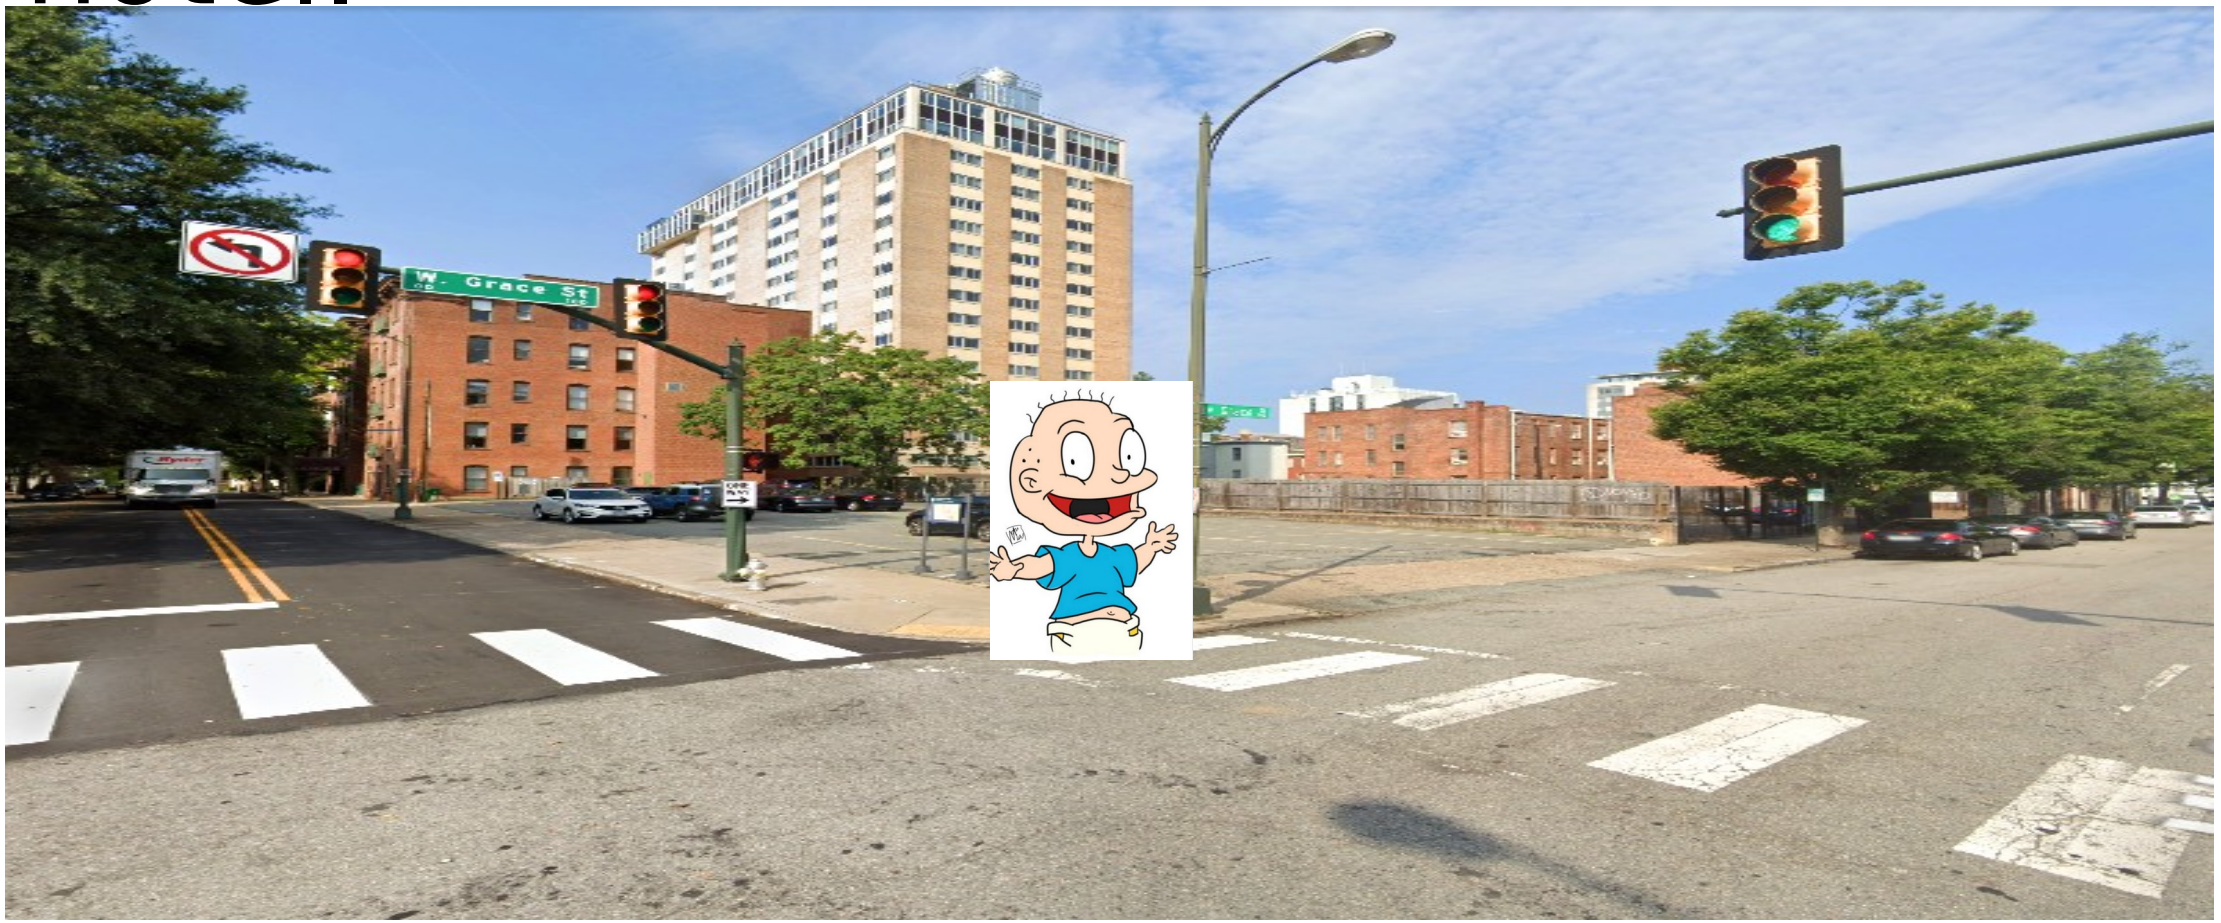
As the train went over the bridge the people were nervous that the bridge might collapse because the train was too heavy.

Then suddenly the train began to fall as the bridge collapsed under it.

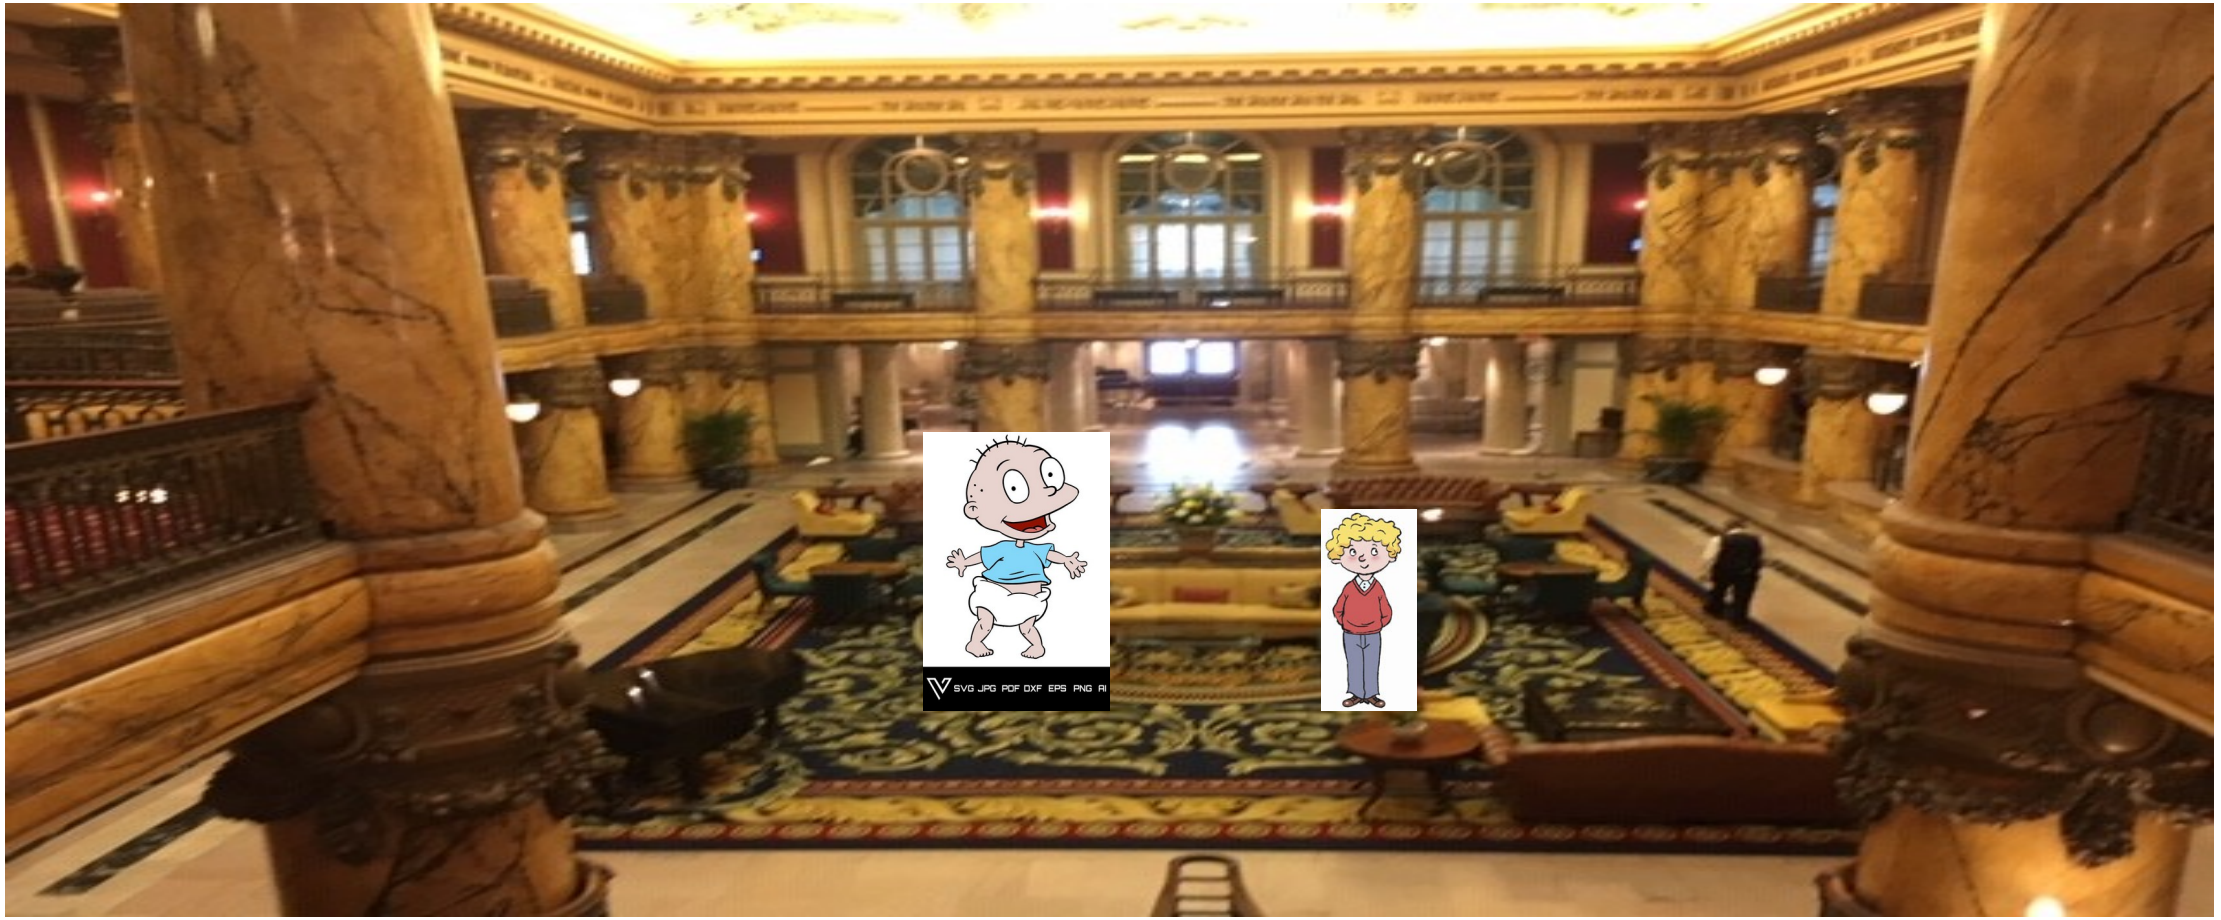
Suddenly they noticed that the Zealand started to fill with water.

Then finally, the rain started to dry up so things could get back to normal.

One day Tommy was walking across the street towards the Jefferson hotel.



Tommy entered the lobby of the hotel. Oh my this place is HUGE”. Tommy said. Yeah I’m lucky to live here Peter said.



Peter became very cross with Tommy because he hurt himself.

Then Tommy started to cry on the staircase because Peter hurt.

Then Tommy decided it was time for bed and went to sleep.